

Shoduxa Kabasa

Planet Saturn
by the planet's light the rings from the surface, earth

The appearance of Saturn's atmosphere as seen from Earth Saturn is shown in the center of the image. The rings are visible as a bright, curved line above and below the planet. The image is a composite of several photographs taken from different angles and times of day. The rings are shown in various positions, some appearing as a bright line, others as a dark line. The planet itself is shown in various positions, some appearing as a bright circle, others as a dark circle. The image is a composite of several photographs taken from different angles and times of day.